on to such an extent that they had no thom to such an extent that they had no thouble in making a further impression upon values, and for awhile it looked very much as though they would have everything their own way. There was a radical change in the entire situation later, however. Advices more favorable to the bulls came to the front, which was sufficient to bring about a reaction in prices, and particularly in corn, which advanced so shirtply as to affect wheat, but in a quieter way. Speculatively the improvement was not marked, there being periods when pit operations were actually at a standstill and no serious efforts were made to do business. Still there was something of an improvement late, and the closing half of the session was in quite marked contrast to that of the first half, which, to say the least, was most discouraging from a bull standpoint.

Operators of bullish proclivities succeeded in getting the upper hand in wheat yesterday, but only after several reverses, and the closure of the standard process. in getting the upper hand in wheat yester-day, but only after several reverses, and the impression that they made on prices was nothing to boast of after all, though they utilized every favoring circumstance that came to hand. The market most of the time, and especially early, was inclined to follow its natural inclination downward, the early phases being bearish and the market apparently having but few friends, and they inclined to be rather lukewarm. The start was quite encouraging, as there was more wheat wanted than was for sale, and sellers found little trouble in getting the previous day's closing price of 75% for May, and late 75% for 32% was paid. The advices at this time were not in the least conductive to strength, Liverpool cables being 345% lower. Argentine shipments almost twice as heavy as those of last week, and receipts here and in the Northwest large and no crop complaints heard of. But the fact that the shipments were large and there was another good big decrease in our stocks made a good impression, with the result mentioned above. The opening demand was soon satisfied, and it was not long before sellers placked up courage, and taking advantage of the fact that buying had let up and there were declines at other domestic markets, they started to selling, following the example of Chicago in this respect, and succeeded in bringing about a weak and bearish feeling, which was strengthened by generally lower cables, Liverpool closing 3d off for the day, Paris 34c and Berlin 36c, the large primary receipts and small clearances of 182,000 bu. flour and wheat helping. The selling pressure became so great that May declined without interruption to 73c, and was offered at 725/673c, and July sold at 71%c. the time, and especially early, was inclined to follow its natural inclination downward.

Near the wind-up of the session wheat received renewed strength from the Modern Miller crop report, which indicated that the winter wheat crop had received some damage. This was followed later by Bradstreet's figures of the week's clearances, which were reported at 4.229,000 bu, and which, although nearly 1,000,000 bu. maller than those of last week, exceeded those of the same week a year ago 4.200,000 bu. There were also 30 loads reported taken for export, and the general cash situation was much improved. This scared shorts, and in their efforts to cover the market advanced, May going to 73%c and July to 72%c. This gain was maintained and the market closed %c higher for the day at the above prices buyers. Near the wind-up of the session wheat re-

The local corn market was undeniably strong yesterday and showed a bold and bullish front all day, no weakness of any consequence being shown at any time. The weather indications, which were for unsettled conditions, with probable rains, and smaller receipts at primary markets, were the first incentives to strength and opened May here with sales ½c higher at 38½c, with 38½c bid for July. The weak tone shown by wheat did awey with much of this strength and May shortly went to 38½c, where it closed the day before. Liverpool was weak and ½d lower on excellent reports on the Argentine crop. A very strong market was experienced after this slight setback, the cause being the sharp bulge in the Chicago market. This started active buying here, end so very urgent was the demand that May sold up to 39½c and July brought 39½c.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKETS CONSIDERABLY STRONGER.

CHARACTERIZED BY GREAT ER ACTIVITY.

Wheat Slumped Early, but Closed With Advance-Corn and Oats Rallied-Pork Advanced.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL Chicago, March 8.-Greater activity and considerably more strength characterized trading to-day in all the chief grain markets and in provisions. Wheat closed with a net gain of %c, after having lost %c early in the day. Corn recovered %c, much more easily than it previously had lost as much, and oats closed at 1/40%c improvement. Pork made a rise of 300 c and gave a very bad turn to those who had it sold short when they saw its aggressive strength.

The Liverpool wheat market followed the lead indicated in the day before by Chicago. Quotations then were reduced from cago. Quotations then were reduced from \(\frac{1}{2} \text{d} \) each for both spot wheat and futures, and this market, influenced by the reflection of its own shadow, as thus reproduced, acted rather heavily as soon as trading got fairly under way. At the immediate opening, George Phillips had 250,000 bu. May wheat to buy, and paid for it from \(\frac{15}{2} \) fairly buy no no size following that up. 75%@%c, but no one else following that up, the price quickly dragged and dropped shortly to 74%c. Argentine shipments of wheat for the week Argentine shipments of wheat for the week were 1,08,000 bu., compared with $24,000 bu. last week, or 3,225,000 the corresponding week of the year before. It was with such figures before them that the local speculators, or a majority of them, thought for an hour that selling wheat was likely to pay better dividends than buying. Colder weather to follow the prevailing mild spell was the first announcement that caused a slight reversion of first impressions. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour, were moderate, amounting to 20,000 bu. Shipping inquiry appeared to have been started again by the slight reduction in price this week, but almost impossibility of securing cars was a great nindrance to business. Strength that developed in corn helped wheat a little, and a gradual tecovery of the early ½c loss was accomplished, and near the end %c was clapped on, 75% being paid for some, with 75% and the first paid for some, with 75% accepted when the last tracing prices as against 150 yesterday. Corn opened about the prices it closed the day before and first transactions were at lowest figures of the day. The owners of heavy lines of corn sold short gave early indications of a desire to lessen the size of their lines, and such symptoms of cautiousness did not give as much confidence in their position as they had been professing. The bulls quickly evented evidences of weakening and made covering of short corn a somewhat arduous undertaking. The damp weather has its influence. In the local inspection of 329 cars none was found of contract quality. Last year's corresponding receipts no mber 232 cars, of which 4 were contract.

The aggregate receipts of corn at Western primary markets were 681,000 bu., compared with 52,000 bu. the like day of the year before. The seathoard clearances for the day were 448,000 bu. Argentine shipments for the week 750,000 bu. The ship

Beef Steers—Very few ofterings presented themselves in the beef department this morning, and those that did found a rather slow market compared with the previous pertion of the weel. Salesmen argued a weak to lower condition, while buyers claimed they pail steady prices. At any rate, the trade was not as satisfactory as Thursday. The best steers averaged 1,339 lbs., brought 5.49, and were sold to an Eastern order buyer. The week has been featured by a scarcity of receipts and a plainness of quality. Chicago, Ill., March S.—Cattle—The Friday market was dull at unchanged prices, with only about 2,500 cattle on sale. They were nearly all common in quality, and consequently sold at low prices. Fewer cattle are being marketed than a few weeks axo, and, although the requirements of trade were no larger, prices ruled anywhere from 10c to 25c higher for beef steers, as compared with last week.
